Huron sex education suit slated Friday

A civil court suit trying to restrain the Huron Township School Board from teaching sex education will open Friday before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Edward S. Piggins.

The bill of complaint was filed Dec. 17 against four members of the school board and the school superintendent by a group of mothers.

The mothers charged that sex education is being taught in "classes in home economics, health and physical education and science -- including classes in planned parenthood, where instruction is given on the reproduction process and birth control."

The court suit also charges that the classes are being taught "without proper guidelines as to subject matter and content, method of instruction or qualification."

Carl Rush, president of the Huron School Board, a defendant in the suit, said:

"We have sex education in the sense that we have two items which are required by state law. They are information required on venereal disease and the other on the menstrual cycle. These have been part of the school program for many years and are administered with proper concern for the student and the parent."

Act 44 of the Michigan Code of Laws, which deals with sex education, has been amended to require that all schools have the following courses of study:

"The school district shall provide only two classes in sex education -- special study of a film strip and a Disney cartoon. That is the program we have. The board has not seen fit to make an over-all program of sex education. The board is not ready for any sex education program in schools."

On charges that sex education has been a mixed group of subjects for years, Rush said he knows this is normal practice.

He said it may be longer in the future.

$100 richer for her effort in submitting an entry, Mrs. Nancy Smolen of Belleville has been chosen as the eighth and final weekly winner in the "Bazaar of Values" contest in the Belleville Enterprise and Romulus Roman.

Mrs. Smolen, who lives at 41440 Fret St., submitted an entry from Hoot's Boots, one of the several area merchants who participated in the two-monthlong contest.

Random drawings were made each week from entries submitted to the office of the Enterprise-Roman in Belleville. A total of $200 in cash prizes was paid to the eight lucky winners.

Merchants who joined in the "Bazaar of Values" contest included:

- Marvaso's Sales & Service, Foodville, Hamilton Pro Hardware, Johnson Fuel & Supply, Vicars Trailer Sales Inc., Romulus Recreation Center and Bud's TV Service.
- Also Kark's Drug Store, Mannings, Ballard Florist, Sumpter Hardware, Kureth's, Burcroff Furniture, A&D Motor Co., Kendall Flowers, Hoot's Boots, Roberts Bros. Inc., Gamble's of Belleville, Huron Electric, Gondolier Music, Monties Meat, Vacation Camper, Home Gallery and

At the request of Mrs. Payne, this attorney rendered the opinion that when the township board approved the Water Commission minutes, they approved the new fee. He then did an abrupt about face when Supervisor Gollwitzer said that Mr. Hopson had given some indication over the phone that the new fee was not in fact legal.

This is the law firm, by the way, that was voted a 50 per cent increase in its retainer fee by the "old" board. In any event, this 2 1/2 per cent fee is just another attempt to legalize the lining of one's trough.

Due to space limitations, the other points of interest were a series of questions on township holding ponds. During the portion of the meeting which is open to all in attendance, Mrs. Joyce Rochowiak questioned the prudence of the Rohler rezoning due to tax inequities.

The township board meeting attendance remains high, which is heartening to see. I am convinced that Van Buren Township residents will demand that the present situation with our "four old board members" be corrected when they have all the facts. To date, we've just looked at the tip of the iceberg.

New Hilton Inn occupancy OK'd

The new Hilton Inn, located at 31500 Wick Rd., has been issued a certificate of occupancy by the Romulus Building Department.

The newest inn in the Detroit Metropolitan Airport vicinity, the Hilton opened its 212 guestrooms and suites several days ago.

The facility, opposite the present Metro Inn, is a four-story motel complex built at an estimated cost of more than $1,500,000. All rooms are fully soundproof, with individually controlled air-conditioning. Soundproof meeting rooms, banquet facilities for up to 300 persons, restaurant and cocktail lounge and parking for 300 cars also are available.

The new inn is under the management of Tony Muto. Formal grand opening ceremonies are planned after completion of a few remaining construction details.

PTA seeks policy renewal

A proposal by parent-teacher groups requesting reinstatement of parent conferences at the junior and senior high school levels met with opposition when presented by Mrs. Fran Petre, President of the Romulus Area PTA Council.

She addressed the Romulus Board of Education at its meeting of Dec. 14.

Superintendent of Schools Robert L. McConaghy explained to the group that conferences had been dropped from teacher contracts during negotiations because they were not well attended by parents.

Reinstatement had been requested as a result of a motion made and passed by delegates from area PTA's asking that conferences be held to establish rapport and communication between the community and the staff of the secondary schools.

A teacher representative had spoken in support of conferences, stating that teachers felt contact with parents is important. The spokesman promised that support of Mrs. Petre and the council in their efforts to gain reinstatement.

The school board requested that the PTA group survey parents to determine if a sufficient number interested to warrant holding conferences next year, Mrs. Petre said. It was estimated that 20 per cent of the parents participated in the last conference held at the high school.

"Since parents seem to want conferences and the teachers say they want better communications with parents, we can only conclude that their elimination from the school year was an administrative decision," said Mrs. Petre.

"If we must prove with petitions or pressure groups that we are interested in our junior and senior high school children, we will follow that course," she added.

Code committee

The present ordinances the committee intends to strictly enforce are:

Water and sewer use, uniform traffic code, zoning, outdoor gatherings, motor vehicles on private property, vandalism in public parks, stagnant water, motorcycle, swimming pools, police officer standards, junk dealers.

Other ordinances to be enforced are vendors and hauling for hire, billiard rooms and bowling alleys, rental halls, hotels, multiple dwellings, etc., minimum, food establishments, parking facilities, inoperable motor vehicles, taxi cabs, dogs, commercial vehicles, sidewalks, subdivision of land, fire prevention code and parking violation bureau ordinance.

At the Dec. 30 meeting, Barrell of the county health department discussed the enforcement laws that should and that are now being enforced by the city and at state level and the fees that are involved.

A lengthy discussion was held concerning food and building inspection and the procedures that the city and the health department will follow to maintain the best safe and sanitary conditions.

City Attorney Ned Bunn presented forms that the city may use for residential or businesses to comply with city ordinances.

The committee unanimously approved the appointment of a three-man review committee to be known as the Review Board.

Appointments to this board are to be made at a later date, Hazen said.

Club seeks props for productions

The Romulus Theatre Arts Club men and their sponsor, Dr. Ferdon, has appealed to the community to keep them in mind when replacing furniture or cleaning out closets.

"For a theatrical organization to function," said Ferdon, "it must have a stockpile of items for use as props, costumes and stage furnishings."

The first performances in the new high school auditorium were held earlier this month and served to illustrate the many items needed to stage a performance.

"We are seeking donations of any of the following," said Ferdon, "Contemporary dresses, power and hand tools, work bench items, waterbase paints, trays, dishes, wigs, hats, costume jewelry, capes, canes, masks, spectacles, swords, pictures, doors, curtains, window frames, false fire place, bells, buzzers, imitation pistols and holsters."

Anyone wishing to contribute articles to the club may contact Ferdon at the Romulus Senior High School, 941-1270.

comment Tuesday. He was in Lansing conferring with attorneys retained to defend the school board and administrators in court.

Mrs. Pat Wiseley, mother of two young sons and a sixth grade teacher at the Huron Elementary school, is one of the plaintiffs in the court litigation. She said:

"I want my child removed from these classes. I don't expect sex education to be completely discontinued. If a parent wants their child in these classes, that's their own business."

"I don't agree with the materials being used. A lot of teachers approached the curriculum council at last year's meeting asking for guidelines. All were teaching their own thing. We are still waiting for these guidelines."

"We don't object to sex education per se, but the children in the school district are getting it through science classes. I do not participate in this sex education program. I am not against sex education if properly taught and at the right age limit. I object strongly to the present program and methods. They have taken it out of the parents' hands and because of moral issues involved."

Mrs. Mildred Bennett, one of the three board members not named in the suit and who is supporting the mothers, said:

"I've heard from so many parents that sex education is being hidden in all classes. They are at the end of their ropes. They don't like what the schools are teaching their children. They're teaching sex education behind scenes."

"These mothers are concerned parents and not a John Birch-inspired movement as reported by some officials."

More citizen involvement called for

More citizen involvement in planning and evaluating programs, and increased emphasis on vocational training and a tightening of guidelines for federally funded programs were points noted by Mrs. Lorena Burton, federal and state coordinator for the Romulus Community Schools.

Mrs. Burton was among 30 federal and state coordinators from Michigan who, with field service staff from Eastern Michigan University, attended recently a three-day conference in Washington, D.C.

The meetings, held Dec. 15-17, and were sponsored by the Michigan Association of State and Federal Program Specialists and the Division of Field Service from Eastern Michigan University under Dr. Ralph Steffek.

Among the goals of the conference was an assessment of the educational philosophies and policies of the Nixon administration as they pertain to compensatory programs.

Describing the meetings as "most worthwhile," Mrs. Burton cited the valuable assistance of Dr. Sam Halperin, director of the educational staff seminar, a bi-partisan, non-political project funded by the Ford Foundation.

Mrs. Burton does not see any increase in federally funded services, but she does not think there will be any changes in existing programs for this year. A tightening of guidelines for future programs is indicated, she said, with increased emphasis on vocational training.

Citizen groups are expected to play an increasingly important role in planning and evaluating federally compensated programs, she added.

What's the future of value-added tax?

European governments like it because it's a tax that is difficult to evade. Unions dislike it because they feel it hits the poor hardest. And the Nixon Administration is reportedly considering the tax as a means of financing major revenue sharing with hard-pressed local governments. This is the value-added tax - a sort of national sales levy.

With states and cities desperately seeking help from the federal government, value-added tax of 2 per cent is a possible source of as much as $11.6 billion a year in new revenues. This would be enough to meet the fiscal crisis facing many cities and states, according to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a crusader for revenue sharing.

A value-added tax is a tax on the value added to a product each time it changes hands from initial producer to final purchaser. While the President has not committed himself on such a levy, administration officials have for some time been studying its effects in Western Europe.

Enactment of such a tax "could bring the most sweeping change to the American tax structure since 1913 when the current graduated income tax became law," according to Business Week magazine. Although the concept is comparatively new in the United States, it has been in use in France for about 15 years. The French succeeded in having it made standard for other European Common Market nations. The Scandinavian countries already have this kind of tax, and Japan, Austria, Britain and Switzerland are considering it.

The value-added tax works this way: With the tax set at 10 per cent, a mining firm selling a bar of silver to a flatware-maker for $10 would pay $1 in federal taxes. If the manufacturer used the metal to make a place-setting worth $50 wholesale, he in turn would owe $4 in taxes - or 10 per cent of the $40 value he added. A jeweler selling the set to a customer would pay a tax of 10 per cent on his markup.

The fundamental question raised by the value-added tax is whether the current American system of taxing income should be abandoned in favor of taxing products. Europeans have moved toward such a tax because of the high level of income tax evasion prevalent in some countries.

The tax, however, is highly controversial. Unions and consumer organizations point out that when it was introduced in the Netherlands in 1969, prices rose at average of 6 per cent in three months. Retailers often seize on the value-added tax as an excuse to raise prices far more than the tax justifies. And it is argued that the tax is regressive because the major burden falls on the poor.

Political problems cloud the outlook. To enact such a tax probably would require the support of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. Mills is on record as opposing the value-added tax "if it has the characteristics of nothing more than a glorified sales tax." He has also opposed revenue sharing, saying "there are no revenues to share."

Interest in the tax has been rekindled by reports that Mills would support a measure linking the proposals together. But a Mills aide has denied the reports. Besides, a value-added tax probably would not take effect before mid-1972. This might send consumer prices soaring before the presidential election.

Between the lines

Cooperation with 'law' is vital

Law enforcement is one of the most important essentials for the successful administration of any community.

The happiness of any range of residential activity depends to a great degree on the obedience to prevailing laws on the part of each and every one of us.

And obedience to these laws which have been enacted after considerable study and debate for our present and future welfare, plus our all-out cooperation with law enforcement authorities make for happier and safer community life.

Making our streets safer for ourselves and our neighbors by prudent operation of the family car, more honesty in our business and private dealings with others and not being afraid to become involved in the protection of life, limb and property can bring about tremendous beneficial results for one's home, family and community.

Thinking constantly of one's self and not for the welfare of others will in the long run hurt such selfish individuals.

In this new year, it behooves us to consider our past performances in the area of obedience to present day laws and, if found wanting, to resolve to do better in the future.

In 1970 crimes were committed in the presence of others who failed to report them because of the lack of desire to become involved. Police officials are quick to tell you that such attitudes encourage crime.

Failure on the part of residents to assist law enforcement officials makes police tasks more difficult and permits the violator to strike again.

Informing police on crime or anticipated crimes about to happen is not being a "stool pigeon," but a citizen who cares about his neighbor and his community.

cleaning a drawbridge that suddenly opens, dropping him into the river.

So be careful on the job or wherever you are. It pays to be observing.

"Did You Know," asks Commerce magazine, "during this year, food distributors will accept approximately 7,500 new products. On an average, each distributor will take on only one out of every eight new items offered. And more than 50 per cent of the accepted new items will be discontinued before the year is out.

Our readers write

Sex-moral education draws reader blast

To the editor:

Bitter fighting in communities all over the land has erupted between parents and educators who are attempting to install the new kindergarten-through-12th grade programs of family life and sex education in their schools. These programs deny to parents the right to be their children's authorities and guides in all matters of sex education.

Parents do want sex education for their children but, why not the simple traditional type which begins in the fifth and sixth grades with separate classes for boys and girls.

Do the majority of parents really want this type of sex ed, which explains sexual intercourse and the scientific terms for the parts of the boy and all body functions and how to make babies, taught to their kindergartener?

Or in higher grades where boys learn what methods are used to arouse young girls and what type of manipulations will turn them on, or on the other hand, informing the girls what precautions to take to keep from getting pregnant, just in case they do lose control. Or how about the sensitivity training where children are encouraged to talk about himself and his parents and their family life.

If your child has problems at home, who should he discuss them with, his parents or his classmates and teacher in open classroom discussion? Are all teachers qualified to be classroom therapists or psychoanalysts?

Classroom discussions of this sort can be very harmful to some children and are also morality-changing, parent-demoting, home invading programs.

Are parents willing to accept this? Are parents going to sit back and allow the family morals and teachings of their own children be destroyed by these so-called new health programs? What about the day your child comes home from school and tells his parents, they are old-fashioned bigots, and that here is no such thing as a NO-NO.

Changing, sex exchanging, drug taking, draft card burning, building burning, demonstrative marches, and rock festivals, where drugs, sex and nudity go hand and hand already. Do we need more of this type of education in our schools? Isn't it enough that its already prevalent in our colleges, let alone in our lower grade schools.

Interested parents should group together and demand that schools explain fully what is in their health programs and what is being taught. Many concerned parents all over the State of Michigan are forming groups to combat these so called health programs. Call me old fashioned, if you will, but I have seen some work sheets and test papers from one school district that, in my opinion, are down-right pornography, I pray that they never reach our schools.

People are concerned about the pollution in the air, what about the pollution that is being put into our childrens minds? What ever happen to the 3'Rs, the most important basics of learning.

Read your newspapers and magazines, watch television and see and hear what doctors and psychiatrists are saying about the harm these programs are doing to your young children.

Child expert Dr. Louise F.W. Eickhoff says, "Sex education in schools is creating a sick society".

The State superintendent of California schools, Dr. Max Rafferty, has written a book called "Classroom Countdown" condemning these programs.

Dr. Rhoda L. Lorand, who has been practicing psychotherapy and psychoanalysis for 20 years, has written an article called, "A Psychoanalytic View of the Sex Education Controversy", which is also against these Health Programs. This book is available at the Editorial Office, 23 Point View Dr., East Greenbush, N.Y. 12061. If you are a concerned parent, these books are a must on your reading list.

After reading this letter, some of you parents may think I'm trying to lock the barn door before the horse is out.

You're wrong. The horse is already out but we don't have to sit back and let it run rampant over our land, schools and children.

If you haven't been concerned in the past, now is the time to get concerned.

Kosygin may sweep foes into negotiations

By Charles Bartlett

— One big apprehension afloat in the State Department is that Premier Kosygin will try to duplicate his success in mediating the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan by sweeping the Arabs and Israelis into a special negotiation under Soviet sponsorship. The Tashkent sessions of 1966 brought such prestige to Kosygin that some experts suspect he may attempt the same pattern of diplomacy in the Middle East. The Israelis would be extremely wary but they are known to be talking to the Soviets in Paris. The ice might be broken by a Soviet reprieve for the Jews convicted on a charge of hijacking.

— Nixon intimates are shuddering over the recruitment to the Muskie campaign staff of a bright young foreign affairs expert, Anthony Lake, who worked for 18 months alongside Henry Kissinger in the White House. Lake read all the secret communications during his White House days and he knows much that can be explosive. Muskie's enlistment of a growing number of bright, young people is his big gain so far over the campaign of Hubert Humphrey, who never pulled them in. But Muskie has also netted 79-year-old Averell Harriman, who had planned to stay neutral to help hold the party together. Harriman is helping to arrange Muskie's trip to Moscow and will probably go with him.

— The White House is encouraging its departing staff members to sit down and write books about the President so that there will be some positive Nixon history before the 1972 elections. Daniel P. Moynihan and Bryce Harlow, both writing men, are likely to produce books. James Keogh, former Time editor, is considering a publisher's offer. At least a dozen outside writers, including Robert Sample of The New York Times, are preparing volumes on the Nixon record. But so far no one is concentrating on foreign policy and Herbert Klein is trying to find a writer to do that.

— Melvin Laird, the Secretary of Defense, is obviously sensitive to the plausible chance that he may be chosen to replace Spiro Agnew as the Nixon running-mate in 1972. Laird is the one possible replacement who would be capable of appeasing the wrath that will arise from party ranks when Agnew is dumped. His New Year's Day appearance as Marshal at the Sugar Bowl game, his chagrin at being excluded from the campaign last fall, his tendency to shadow the Secretary of State on foreign policy pronouncements, and the social-minded character of his policies in the Pentagon are still signs that he is willing to be considered for the role.

— The defeated Republican Congressman from Akron, William Ayres, needs a job on Capitol Hill for 18 months to amplify his pension claims. One post for which he is soliciting support is Architect of the Capitol, a $38,000 job left vacant by George Stewart's death in May. The President makes the appointment and his choice need not be confirmed by the Senate.

Speaking of schools

Which teaching method is best?

What method should you use? As in your child's school, not one method, but all of them.

One will be helpful to a child at a particular time. An entirely different approach may be the one to use in a different situation.

The A B C method was used for years and children learned to read, although perhaps more painfully than happily. This method in its pure form consists of first learning the letters, the learning the words through spelling out the letters.

Some children now hit upon this approach of spelling out words to help recall them and find it is useful. However, if this is the only approach, it is time-consuming and easily becomes tiresome.

A variation of the A B C method is the phonetic method. Here the basis is still letters but the emphasis is on learning the sound of the letters. The approach to the word is the combining of the individual letter sounds to form the word. Here, as in the alphabet method, the very shortest words are used first. The same objections apply to this as an exclusive method as to its earlier counterpart.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Miss Charlotte Hardy, a teacher at the Hannan Road Elementary School, is the author of a pamphlet entitled "Prepare Your Child for Reading" published by the University School of Education, University of Michigan. The following is the second of three articles.

Because both these methods proved slow and laborious, there was a period in which the alphabet was jettisoned. During this time, the "look and say" method reigned supreme.

The idea back of this method was that children could remember stories, sentences, then words, by length, general shape, use of pictures, and familiarity with the context.

It was found that children could acquire their beginning reading vocabulary through recognizing words on sight rather than going through the slow process of examining each separate letter in the word. Through this method, reading became fun for children.

They were able to read simple stories from the beginning of their work in reading. They could tell their experiences for the teacher to put down in manuscript writing and they could read the stories back.

The objection to the exclusive use of this method was that children sometimes remained in the stage of memory reading for a long period without understanding that words were the building blocks of sentences and stories and were the same, even though they appeared in different sentences. Children also failed to learn to approach new words through familiarity with letter sounds.

So the teaching of reading was altered by the wide acceptance (at least in principle) of working with each child as an individual.

Common sense use of these various methods in the light of your own child's needs is most fruitful. As you gain experience through actually working with your child and discussing his reading with his teacher, you will come to know the best approach for him at any given time.

Dancers booked

As a result of prizes they won in Bulgaria this summer, the Pennsylvania ballet's husbandwife principal dancers Alexei Yudenich and Barbara Sandonato have been engaged as guest artists of the National Ballet of Canada.

The contest they won was in Varna, Bulgaria. Ninety dancers from 20 nations competed.

The Yugoslav-born Yudenich topped all the men and Miss Sandonato took third place among the ballerinas.

Miss Sandonato joined the Pennsylvania Ballet when it was only a school, in 1962. Yudenich became the company's first full-time male soloist in 1964. They were married in 1966.

'Retarded' group sets Monday meet

Members of the Downriver Association for Retarded Children will hold their regular monthly membership meeting on Monday at the Garfield School, Fourth Sts., and Superior, Wyandotte.

Along with the regular order of business, plans for owning the present building facilities of the D.R.I.V.E. Work Shop will be discussed, and expanding of these facilities to include a parking lot, to accommodate the influx of adult retardates leaving the school system programs and who will attend the workshop.

The D.R.I.V.E. (Down River Industrial Vocational Enterprises) Work Shop, owned and operated by the Downriver Association for Retarded Children, does services for local industries i.e. sorting, packaging, stuffing and stamping envelopes, correlating, minor assembling, rethreading, and relabeling.

There are 36 employees under the direction of three supervisors and the workshop manager Howard Dahlka.

All of the employees must be 21 years of age or older. Two buses are used as transportation through out the down river area, covering approximately 14 communities.

Presiding officers are Cliff LaMora, president; Mrs. Virginia Bowersox, first vice president; Fred Miller, second vice president; Mitchell Tola, treasurer; Rinaldo Campagna, recording secretary; and Mrs. Gerry Smith, corresponding secretary.

Membership meetings are held on the second Monday of each month and all interested persons are welcome to attend.

Inkster to host confab

More than 1300 delegates from Inkster, Taylor, Westland, Belleville, and other southwest Detroit suburbs will convene for a three-day convention at Detroit's Assembly Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses at 10709 Grand River Friday evening through Sunday.

Hosting the semi-annual event for the local circuit comprising eight congregations will be the Inkster East Unit of Jehovah's Witnesses located at 3041 John Daly.

Opening the program and acting as chairman Friday at 6:45 p.m. will be Rufus Williams, of Inkster, with songs and experiences. Also sharing in the program will be W. Curlee and Mrs. J. Ball of the Inkster East congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The assembly program will emphasize the theme "God's Word is Alive" showing the penetrating effect and practicality of the Bible for the individual, the family, and all humanity in this twentieth century. The information will be presented in the form of talks and demonstrations.

The highlight of the occasion will occur at 3 p.m. Sunday, when A.A. Catanzaro, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society answers the thought-provoking question, "Who Will Conquer the World in the 1970's?"

Swedish soldiers once wore three-foot skis. Other skiers strapped a short ski on one foot to kick along with and a long sliding ski on the other.

Six men interested in school board seat

Six Romulus area residents seek to fill a six-month interim vacancy on the Romulus Board of Education, School Superintendent Robert L. McConeghy reported Monday.

The six applicants, including a former member of the school board, have written communications and statements of interest to the school board since the resignation of school board member William M. Oakley, 40, a life long resident of the Romulus community.

Oakley's resignation became effective Jan. 1.

Oakley resigned his school post in favor of a seat on Romulus City Council following a ruling by Michigan

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley that holding both positions constituted a conflict of interest.

The residents who have expressed interest in serving on the school board are:

Garold Hoffer, 34841 Lynn Dr., who was defeated in a re-election bid in the June 1970 school election; Frederick A. Williams, 30708 Beverly Rd.; Frank Filkins, 6887 Ball; Gordon Silvey, 36831 Porter St.; David Delozier, 35700 Garner; John Roundtree, 33950 Ecorse Rd.; and Andrew Lopota, 6711 S. Merriman Rd.

Under state law, the school board must choose within two weeks a new school board member to fill the vacancy.

Whoever is chosen by the school board will have to seek election for the remaining one year of Oakley's four-year term in the June 1971 election.

School Board Secretary Davis Draper announced that any citizen of the Romulus School District may indicate his or her interest in the six-month term by letter to the school board or by attending a board meeting.

"Last Sunday, (Jan. 3)" Joki said, "nearly 1,000 radio stations, including 32 in Michigan, will broadcast 'The Truth That Heals' every week in the same time periods allotted to broadcasts in the previous Christian Science series, 'The Bible Speaks to You' which has been on the air for more than eight years."

Local Radio stations and the hours of broadcast are WAAM (1600) at 8:45 a.m.; and WCHO-FM (106) at 6:45 p.m.

Group to probe waste disposal, litter problems

A new organization, incorporated as the Michigan Council for Convenience Packaging (MCCP), has been formed to seek constructive solutions to the growing problem of solid waste disposal and litter.

As an initial step towards funding realistic solutions to the problem of household solid waste disposal and litter, the Council announced an initial cash grant of $10,000 to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The MCCP, a non-profit organization, is composed of representatives from Michigan's beverage industry and various container manufacturers. Also represented are general line retailers, food dealers, labor organizations and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. Invitations for membership are being extended to community leaders, environmentalists and food manufacturers.

President of MCCP is Robert A. Schiffer, who is also president of the Michigan Brewers' Association. Serving with him on the executive committee are Walter J. Voss, president of Vernors, Inc. (vice president); Edward Deeb, executive director of the Associated Food Dealers of Greater Detroit (secretary); Robert B. Healy, vice president of the Detroit Coca-Cola Bottling Company (treasurer); and Harold B. Bordy, Michigan representative of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America (director).

"The Council's goals include the active support of constructive legislation for the development and improvement of solid waste disposal facilities and for controlling litter," said Schiffer.

SEMCOG is presently seeking $75,000 from business firms in the area to conduct a special study on solid waste collection and disposal methods. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has approved $89,500 for the study provided that a matching amount of local funds is also invested. "Our grant of $10,000 to SEMCOG is further demonstration of our desire to put words into meaningful action," said Schiffer.

"The problems of household solid waste disposal and litter which confront our community are vast and complex. What is needed is a balanced and well-conceived approach, conducted in the spirit of cooperation and backed by needed dollars, by all who desire the improvement of our living

"Toward this end, the Michigan Council For Convenience Packaging pledges its united effort. We shall direct all our resources, the technology, the experience and the funds...to meet this problem head on. We invite all concerned citizens to band together so that we can alleviate a pressing environmental problem," Schiffer said.

He also said that the MCCP will conduct a continuing information program to inform the public about all facts of the litter problem.

Included will be the establishment of a Speaker's Bureau, distribution of anti-littering aids and literature, educational programs and materials for school systems, advertising, community action programs, environmental and solid waste disposal research and development programs.

The MCCP maintains offices at 350 Madison Ave. Detroit, Michigan 48226. Telephone number is 962-1109.

NEW YORK — When does a comedian stop laughing?

When he's talking seriously about comedy. And Cy Howard, who has written material for Jack Benny, Danny Thomas and the Smothers Brothers, has impressive credentials for talking about the business of how to make people laugh. Recently Howard moved from writing comedy to directing it, and made his first film, "Lovers and Other Strangers."

"You can't just wander through the world any more with comedy," Howard prefaced his remarks about the movie. "Lovers and Other Strangers" is funny, but it also makes some serious points about what can happen in a marriage.

"That's what's needed in comedy now—a frame of reference," he continued. "In my film, I tried to have something for everyone to identify with. Thus, many different kinds of people would be able to relate it to their own lives."

Howard talks a lot about the movie, "M. A. S. H.," which he considers a fine example of modern comedy. "The anti-war viewpoint in 'M. A. S. H.' is what makes it so good," he said. "That gives the whole film an underlying honesty, so that even the really funny bits have a lot of meaning. But you take that viewpoint and its strictly military humor, which by itself isn't outstanding."

"You just have to face it," he added. "Comedy without a point of view isn't going to make it. And you've also got the fact that TV is handling the kind of comedy now that movies used to deal with—like the situation comedy."

But once you get past the point of view—there's the old business of getting the laughs and, according to Howard, it's the hardest thing in the world. "That's because you have to get an instant response," he said. "In drama, the audience can walk away and think about what the movie or play meant later. But in comedy, you can't do that. If the response isn't immediate, it's lost."

Howard relies a lot on what he calls "planned improvisation." "That's like knowing when to let the camera just roll, without stopping to plan certain shots," he said. "At the end of a scene, when the actors think the camera is no longer there, I often keep shooting. Marvelous things can happen. And you can only get those shots once."

Howard's own entry into show business was less than planned. He was born and raised in Milwaukee and graduated from the University of Wisconsin. The only strange thing about his childhood, he recalls, is that he was the state tennis champion—the first in his Italian-Jewish neighborhood.

In the early days of television, Howard created some of the first situation comedies, including, "Life with Luigi," based on Howard's experiences with his father, a Russian immigrant.

Mobile home makers seek size law change

The state's mobile home industry is facing a serious threat because Michigan restricts highway movement to 12-foot-wide vehicles. Meantime, 24 other states have passed legislation permitting the movement of the 14-foot-wide mobile homes which are in brisk demand. As Ohio (on Dec. 18) became the latest state to alter its requirements, the situation is described as an "emergency" by Dan Dowsett, executive director of the Michigan Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Institute. "Michigan's industry is in a bind because it must stick to the 12-foot-wide maximum," he said. "Meantime, consumers are favoring the new and larger 14-foot-wide vehicles. The majority of sales in states which allow the 14-foot wide mobile homes are these new, larger ones. "We are extremely concerned over the loss of sales in these states because 65 per cent of all Michigan produced mobile homes are sold to dealers outside of Michigan. "The buyer wants the larger vehicle because use of five per cent increase in cost gets him 16-23 per cent more space. Of course, Michigan citizens can't purchase the larger vehicles because they can't move them on Michigan roads. More than 19,000 mobile homes are annually produced in Michigan with a wholesale value of more than $93,000,000. Michigan is fifth in production in the country and second only to Indiana in the Midwest. "If the situation continues, Michigan's production facilities would be severely damaged and thousands of jobs would be lost," Dowsett said.

"Also, it's not helping our housing shortage. HUD reports that mobile homes at present constitute a major if not the largest single source of acceptable new housing which moderate income families can afford."

emergency gubernatorial decree to provide badly needed economical housing for residents of their states. He added that Gov. Milliken and Michigan lawmakers are aware and concerned about the situation and he is hopeful that some type of emergency action will also be forthcoming in Michigan.

Mexico honors soldier

MEXICO CITY — A small plaque in a tiny Mexico City plaza lists the names—O'Reilly, O'Connor, Appleby, Nolan, Sheehan, McElroy, Fitzpatrick, Daly, Murphy and those of 62 other Irishmen. Mexico calls them heroes. The U.S. Army calls them traitors.

To themselves they were merely common men who felt they were being asked to fight an unjust war. But instead of refusing to fight they simply switched sides.

What made this group of men one country's heroes and the other's villains is a little known historical incident of the Mexico-U.S. War of 1847.

The names are those of most of the members of the St. Patrick Battalion, a group of Texas-Irishmen who fought on Mexico's side after deserting en masse from the U.S. Army. The plaque says: "With Mexico's gratitude to the Irish soldiers of the heroic St. Patrick Battalion who gave their lives for the cause of Mexico during the unjust North American invasion."

Most of the members of the battalion were executed by General Winfield Scott's army after the last big battle of the war on the outskirts of Mexico City.

Why did this group desert the United States victorious forces and join Mexico's lost cause?

Mexican historians have tried to find the reason in the "Irish sense of justice." Other historians explain it by referring to the living conditions of the Irish in the United States at a time when Irish settlers were still looked down on by Protestants.

A Mexican novelist-historian, Patricia Cox, states a similar argument in a novel about the battalion based on the life of John O'Reilly, an Irishman who according to Mrs. Cox, went to Texas from an Ireland under English domination.

The historical fact is that most of the members of the battalion came from San Patricio (St. Patrick) country of Texas and were recruited at a time when the memory of the Alamo and the battle for Texas independence was very much alive. San Patricio was founded by a group of Irish settlers in the late 1820s when Texas was part of Mexico.

"But the Irish of Texas at that time had little against Mexico. We had the same religion, and Texas' independence was already recognized by Mexico. After they were recruited they realized that they were wanted for an invasion of Mexico, not to defend Texas," says Chronicler Salvador Novo.

Other historians speculate that the Irish Catholics came to Texas when the Spanish Catholic population was suffering some persecution from the dominant Protestant settlers in the aftermath of Texas' secession from Mexico.

The battalion, under O'Reilly, joined the Northern Mexican Army.

It participated in some battles in the north before reaching Mexico City where it joined other Mexican forces for the last stand against the advancing U.S. forces.

The battalion's colors were a white flag with an Irish harp and the words "St. Patrick Battalion."

The battalion fought its last battle late in August in Molino del Rey and Churubusco, then outside Mexico City. At Churubusco, a group of Irishmen fell into the hands of the U.S. Army.

The defenders had spent all their ammunition.

On Sept. 8, 1847 a U.S. Army court martial in Tacubaya sentenced all 51 prisoners to the gallows, but Gen. Scott commuted the sentence of nine of them, including O'Reilly. The nine were given 50 lashes in public and branded on the forehead with a "D", for deserter.

The Mexican government, the church and the public asked the U.S. Army to spare the lives of the Irishmen, but the appeals were rejected.

Under Scott's orders the condemned men were taken to a public plaza, placed on carts under the gallows facing a U.S. flag and then executed.

The war ended a few weeks later. Mexico lost much of its northern and western territory and the U.S. troops left.

Most of the survivors stayed in Mexico and died here. O'Reilly died of tuberculosis years later.

'Horses', 'Airport', 'Z' close behind

'Catch-22' picked 70's top film

By HOWARD ALLEN
Eagle Movie Critic

There are few authentic touches of brilliance in the movies. There is wit aplenty, much style, often fine craftsmanship and a large helping of glitter. But true brilliance is an elusive quality and this was displayed in abundance by Mike Nichols and Buck Henry in "Catch-22", selected by The Daily Eagle as 1970's movie of the year.

It takes more than mere agility to combine some of the blackest of humor, one of the few meaningful anti-war statements made by Hollywood, imaginative and non-cliche cinematography in a highly expressionistic style which makes such a forceful statement about the lunacy of war.

In the sense that "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," "Intolerance" and "Citizen Kane" have become textbook films to be cited to film-making classes for years to come, so could "Catch-22" be such a milestone.

"Catch-22" heads the list of this year's outstanding films, based on films which opened in the Detroit area the past 12 months. Thus, such films as "They Shoot Horses" are considered this year, although entered in last year's Oscar derby, because they opened in Detroit this year. And films such as "I Never Sang for My Father," which will be considered this year for Academy Awards but have not yet opened in Detroit, are not here considered.

This list ignores at least two films which have made several top ten lists, "Five Easy Pieces" and "Patton." This minority report suggests that "Five Easy Pieces" lacked sufficient focus and direction while "Patton," which attempted to come on as both a legitimate war spectacle for the so-called middle Americans and "the story of a rebel" to the mod generation, sought to play both ends against the middle. A film should not attempt to be all things to all people.

A final note. At least two of the films on this list, "Airport" and "Scrooge," had no great messages and sought to do nothing beyond pleasing their audience, which they did well. Ten years ago such films made the top ten lists regularly; today one almost has to apologize for their inclusion in this year of relevancy. Yet in recent years Oscars for best film have gone to "My Fair Lady," "Gigi," "The Sound of Music" and "Around the World in 80 Days," none of which had any goal beyond pure entertainment. So, defiantly, no apology is offered for their inclusion.

The Rest of the top ten:
2. "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" Sidney Pollack's meticulous depiction of the viciousness and degradation of the depression era and its exploitive danceathons, with virtuoso performances by Jane Fonda, Gig Young and Red Buttons had almost frightening impact, avoiding the least trace of a sentimental note.

3. "Airport." Pure entertainment in the style of the masters of Hollywood's golden era, who knew what entertainment was all about. A suspense drama, flawlessly unfolded, ably developing chilling suspense--if Hollywood thrives, it will probably be the "Airports" which keep it alive.

4. "Z." This powerful indictment of the current Greek distastefulness shows the movies at their crusading best. "Z" is stark and unpretentious but it is bamed in Greece. It must say more about a real evil than any other film this year.

5. "The Boys in the Band." This is perhaps the most honest attempt ever to portray the agonizing world of the homosexual. This story of a disastrous birthday party is utterly compelling, dealing with real people, not the caricatures usually offered of the gay set. Mart Crowley's story is told with intense personal involvement.

6. "Joe." No more impressive portrayal of the worst aspects of middle America, in all its hard hat glory has been presented than "Joe," which deftly avoids glamorizing the drug cult and youth which is its inevitable target. Peter Boyle's title portrayal is worth double the admission alone.

7. "Tora! Tora! Tora!" is easily the year's top spectacle. The deft portrayal of the attack on Pearl Harbor from both American and Japanese viewpoints, admirably blends the efforts of two separate production companies in different countries into work impressive enough to be called almost documentary in impact, while letting no story values suffer.

8. "Scrooge." Without reservation the happiest, most handsome and most fun picture of the year. "Scrooge" should become the definitive "Christmas Carol." A feat for the eyes and ears from first to last.

9. "Fellini Satyricon." Fellini's latest effort has been condemned as degenerate, which misses the point that it supposed to be. If you want to know what killed the Roman Empire, this film will tell you. More important, it tells you what might kill modern western civilization and does so with all the imagination and opulent style for which Fellini is noted.

10. "The Twelve Chairs." The sort of laughter that Mel Brooks deals out goes back to Mack Sennett and the Marx Brothers. There is no more inventive writer of blunt and uninhibited film comedy around today.

Honorable Mentions: 11. "Cotton Comes to Harlem," possibly the first Negro comedy presented from the black viewpoint. 12. "MASH" had the misfortune to precede "Catch-22" but it can stand on its own as an impressive effort. 13. "Quackster Fortune Has a Cousin in the Bronx" is Gene Wilder's utterly charming interpretation of an unreconstructed Irish individualist.

14. "The Great White Hope." is a thoroughly damning study of the American racism which could not stand a pre-WWI black heavyweight champ. 15. "Anne of a Thousand Days" virtuosi performances by Richard Burton and Genevieve Bujold as Henry VIII and Anne Boelyn. 16. "The Angel Levine" didn't sustain its initial mood, but Zero Mostel and Harry Belafonte gave performances to remember.

17. "La Femme Infidele" was an authentic chiller from Claude Chabrol. 18. "Lovers and Other Strangers" is a deft and warm comedy from Renee Taylor and Joe Balogna. 19. "Start the Revolution Without Me"--come to think of it this hasn't been such a bad year for comedy. 20. "The Owl and the Pussycat" was picked for Buck Henry and not for La Barbra.

'Singles Thing' is promising

Armory is where it's at

Where it's at is at the Armory!

"The Singles Thing," the entertainment kickoff to 1971, is a new concept in how to think young and enjoy it more.

Headlined by the Ramsay Lewis Trio and including most of the top Detroit entertainment set, the show is expected to draw upwards of 50,000 at the (E. Eight Mile) Light Guard Armory this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

In addition to Ramsay Lewis, the popular Katzanjammer rock band will entertain and Detroit area folk singing standouts Phil Esser, Dean Rutledge, Charlie Latimer and James Round will put together a concert.

Top disc jockeys Steve Hunter, Dick Purtan and Scott Regan will be airlifted by helicopter from their respective radio stations to assist in emceeing duties in bed-stuffing, mini-skirt and body-painting contests; the Miss Detroit Universe pageant; the "Miss Sitzmark" and "Dick Putan look-alike" contest.

Also, on-the-spot computer dating for instant compatibles, Zodiac name tags, live music for dancing, refreshment, fashion shows, mod shops, boutiques and apparel store displays and many other exhibits geared to today's individualistic world guarantee a completely new kind of show for the young in outlook.

A "Moonwalk" and an old-fashioned kissing booth promise a past-to-present time span dimension to the spectacle.

To kick off the Friday afternoon festivities, Tom Shiflet will be attempting to break his world record snowmobile longevity record of 26 hours, 15 minutes set in November while preparing for a much-publicized race by snowmobile aboard his Sno-

Whiz to the South Pole in late January.

Shiflet will begin his record-setting run early Thursday afternoon, continue through the night encouraged and assisted by coffee runners and well-wishers. He will stop only long enough to refuel and accept passengers for laps on his historic jaunt. A mobile home for officials and to welcome visitors will stand vigil outside the Armory.

Last year's Miss America, Pam Eldred, and a city official representing the Mayor's office, will congratulate Tom in the middle of the show's press preview. Miss Eldred will accompany Shiflet on his final, record-breaking lap. He will also be honored by an official of the Michigan International Snowmobile Association and then his machine will be taken inside the Armory for display for the remainder of the weekend.

Wine-tasting seminars the first (noon) of the show on Saturday and Sunday will give each day a spark to ignite the activities from the opening moments. A photographic exhibition and contest and an ecology program are also planned.

"The Singles Thing." Something unique.

HE'LL BE THERE - Ramsey Lewis will also be at "The Singles Thing" which will be staged at the Light Guard Armory from Jan. 8 through 10. Other featured entertainers include the popular Katzanjammer rock band, folk singing standouts Phil Esser, Dean Rutledge and Charlie Latimer.

Fox, raccoon and deer are among the wild animals that inhabit the wildlife areas of Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Stony Creek Metropolitan Park near Utica.

Speaking of your health

Promises, rhetoric pollute the air

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

Is emphysema a new disease, and why are we hearing so much about it lately? Is it caused only by tobacco? Mr. S.L.E., Iowa

Dear Mr. E.: Emphysema, a chronic lung condition, has been studied and known for a long time. In recent years, however, more knowledge about its cause has accumulated.

This mechanical enlargement of the air sacs of the lungs is unfortunately a condition that, once established, cannot be reversed or altered.

Medical attention is devoted to keeping the condition from becoming worse and to avoiding possible complications.

It becomes obvious, therefore, that emphasis must be placed on the prevention of this disabling chronic lung condition.

Smoking is not the only cause of emphysema. There are others. But it must not be assumed by smokers that because there are other causes of emphysema they automatically have the "go-ahead" signal to continue to expose themselves to this extreme danger.

Undoubtedly, pollution of the air by factory fumes, uncontrolled gases and waste products play an important role in the cause and progression of emphysema. Chronic bronchitis, tuberculosis, and a host of other lung conditions may set the stage for emphysema.

It is astonishing how negligent our legislators and industrialists have been in

Choice of doctor granted

Blue Shield subscribers in Michigan now have the right to a free choice of doctor because of a new state law.

Up until now, Blue Shield and the Michigan State Medical Society successfully blocked patients of doctors of chiropractic from Blue Shield inclusion even though a patient might have been a Blue Shield subscriber, and if he sought health care from a chiropractic physician, he had to pay cash. If, on the other hand, he went to an M.D., D.O. or podiatrist, his Blue Shield policy covered that expense.

The new law, known as Chiropractic-Blue Shield (SB 1756), concludes a 10-year struggle on the part of the Michigan State Chiropractic Association to end discrimination by Blue Shield against patients of chiropractors.

-Romulus school news- Vacation over for youngsters

The YWCA pre-school nursery resumed sessions this week following a two-week Christmas vacation.

The nursery, which meets regularly three mornings a week at the Special Services Building, 7335 Washington St. Romulus, provides a pre-school social and educational opportunity for youngsters aged 2½ through 6 years.

Mrs. Marie Bird, supervisor aided by mother volunteers, conducts the children through non-rigid, but scheduled activities that simulate classroom experiences.

While the children are involved in nursery activities, the mothers have an opportunity to engage in "Y Wives" functions.

These programs are among those sponsored by the YWCA with the cooperation of the Romulus Community School District's Continuing Education Committee.

Carmichael to speak at PTA meet

Romulus Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael is the invited speaker for Mt. Pleasant Elementary School's PTA meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, announces Mrs. Glenna Waddell, group president.

"Because we are interested in our community, we would like to know what changes have been made since Romulus became a city," she said. "We are also interested in what other changes the mayor plans for the future."

The PTA group meets regularly on the second Tuesday of each month at the school, 3900 Superior. They sponsor a dental care program through the Wayne County Department of Health. They also provide a weekly hot lunch for the children of the school.

Coupon seekers need help

Girl Scout Troop 416 is completing a project begun last year to help obtain a kidney machine for patients of the Romulus area.

The troop, under the leadership of Mrs. Robin Kring, started collecting General Mills Coupons to purchase a loaner machine. Area residents helped out and raffles added to the total collected.

But now, due to curtailment of the coupon redemption program, Mrs. Kring finds that she must complete the project by April.

The girls of troop 416 and Mrs. Kring asked that anyone who has been saving coupons for them please send them to 9509 Lisa Dr. before April 1.

presented awards to the following boys: Webelos: William Wensko, artist, sportsman and engineer; John Roberts, artist; Jerry LaFramboise, artist; Alfred Riopelle, artist; William Ellis, artist; Jeff Hopson, artist; John Veith, artist; Eric Larson, artist; Jack McGrath, artist.

Den One: David Wensko, denner badge; Ronald Kampen, assistant Denner. Den six: Kenneth Riopelle, gold arrow, silver arrow, silver arrow and wolf rank.

Cubs carol Scout leaders

Members of Cub Scout Pack 830 of the Hayti Elementary School area spent the evening of Dec. 23 walking through their community singing Christmas carols, reported den mother Mrs. Nolene Suessine.

Accompanied by five mothers, 20 Cubs and Webelos Scouts braved cold winds and snow to sing at their own homes and scout leaders.

A cup of hot chocolate and cookies at the home of Scoutmaster Jack Rarick was a welcome high point of the evening, said Mrs. Suessine.

Helen help us!

Addict's wife tells her tale of woe

Dear Helen:

I hope you print this so that some of the kids who get their "highs" and say it's their thing, "don't hassle us," will think about the other lives they ruin, or are about to ruin.

I am married to a drug addict. It is pure hell for me to go to work in the morning, try to do a job, while worrying if my husband has found a way to get down today.

Of course there have been programs — $25 a week and you're cured! Or so many pills, or so much methadone from a center and you don't get sick any more. To all these programs I say nuts! I just wish I could sit at the U.N. table and do something to stop drugs coming into this country, or find the pushers and get them busted ... something, anything ... to turn back this epidemic.

Helen, I love my guy so much. His "friends" who call him "to go and cop for them" think I am the one that is wrong. According to them, a little high doesn't hurt ... And then you're hooked.

I found out a year ago, when I came across a set of "works" while cleaning. Maybe I was blind before, but in our short marriage, I had never suspected. Dopers don't act that much "different" at first. Only those in close association with users know the tortures I went through while he tried to quit, then shot up again, time after time, when he was tempted.

Now he's on another "program," and he works steadily. But will it last? There'll be a day when someone will say, "I'll turn you on if you lend me $2." Then there's free stuff. The best thing an addict can do for a buddy (all addicts are "friends") is give "tastes." That's how you know you have a friend.

But I don't have to tell you there are no real pals over a bag of dope. My husband learned, when his mother's house was robbed by a "close friend" who borrowed his car supposedly to look for a job, but really for a cover. He sold the loot for heroin.

Things have been good for almost a month, but I'm in constant fear. I take care of all the money, see to it he never carries more than enough for lunch, because he can't trust himself. He's broken off with all his old friends, but they're still around waiting, and his habit is just asleep for a while. He doesn't miss a day saying he's sorry but, Helen, my insides have been torn apart by fear and hurt and not knowing. It is really finished? I pray!

That's the other side of dope — the slow death users bring to people who love them! — Addict's Wife was just a little something extra to do with your "brothers" — until he tried to quit.

Dear Wife: Try not to expect the worst:

Defeatism in you can make the needle awfully tempting. Addicts aren't doomed for life, especially when their habit is new and fairly small. Perhaps your husband has slipped because "friends" won't leave him alone. Would a move to a new location — away from the heavy drug scene — be an answer? — H.

Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette

Remember, 'home' is where you live

By AMY VANDERBILT

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: How long can you talk about your home state and still make new friends? -- Mrs. C.H."

If you have come into a new community, it is tactful not to overdo the mention of your former state. I once knew people who 30 years after moving from upstate New York to New York City still prefaced almost everything they had to say with the phrase "Back home..." It only underlined their inability to adapt and was a slight source of irritation to others.

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: When should you carry gloves, and when should you wear them? -- H.W."

When a woman carries her gloves, it is merely to show people that she has them but doesn't care to put them on. If this is the case, she might just as well put them in her purse or leave them home.

I like to see gloves actually worn under formal circumstances-- to weddings, to church, to formal receptions, leas--but otherwise, especially in the summer, it is up to individual taste these days.

Certainly, it is much more comfortable to wear them in downtown dirty urban areas, as they are protective. But I see many well-dressed and attractive women going without gloves even in the cities, as men have for a long time.

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: Is it ever proper to display an American Flag that has been presented to the mother of a soldier at a military funeral? Ours was given to my mother when my brother died. -- H.H."

I suppose some would suggest that you preserve it carefully with mementoes of your brother. My own feeling is that it should be used. Fly it on all meaningful holidays at least as a tribute to him and to our country.

"Dear Miss Vanderbilt: When my mother died last year, money was contributed in her memory for a memorial

Teenagers take places on J.A. board

In a precedent setting action, Joseph F. Kerigan, president of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan and vice president and group executive of the Chrysler Stamping Group announced recently that four J.A. members had been elected to serve on the Board of Directors of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan.

This marks the first time that teenagers have been on the board which includes many of the southeastern Michigan's most prominent businessmen and citizens.

The four were named because of their positions in the Achievers Association which is made up of the J.A. presidents of over three hundred and seventy companies. The four are Lawrence White, president of the Association; Douglas Kelly, vice president; Keita Rieckhoff, secretary and Russ Sly who is parliamentary and the J.A. National Conference vice president.

The Board of Directors, which has played a major role in the rapid growth and national leadership of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan, will meet tomorrow (Thursday) at the Pontchartrain Hotel. The four high school students will attend as full voting members. Also attending the meeting will be Richard Maxwell, national president of Junior Achievement, the executive heads of the major metropolitan J.A. programs from across the country.

With the addition of the teens to the board of directors, J.A. is continuing to keep its economic education program current and meaningful to the youth of the area.

J.A.'s practical business experience is now more than ever an asset to young people that strive to get ahead, and today's youths are aware of participation and concern. The four J.A. members are all high school seniors. White lives in Detroit and attends Austin High School. Kelly also lives in Detroit and goes to Pershing High School. Keita Rieckhoff lives in Saline where she attends Saline High. Sly goes to Mott High School in Warren.

Child care

Stomach aches have many causes

By WILLIAM G. CROOK, M.D.

Q. I was interested in your recent column about stomach-ache, in which you said, "Most tummy-aches are due to emotional causes or food allergy."

Although it is painful for me to write this letter, I'm writing in the hope it'll help you and other doctors test further before attributing stomach pains in children to "nerves."

Several years ago, my 14-year-old-son complained of stomach-ache. He was studied in two hospitals; we were told that the cause was "nerves."

A year after the stomach-ache began, he started to have pains in the back of his neck. Again, we got the same diagnosis. After another year, his eyes began to bulge. Possible thyroid disease was diagnosed. Finally, we took him to our eye doctor who immediately saw that the bulging eyes were due to pressure on the optic nerve. Then we learned our son had a brain tumor.

Even though he underwent brain surgery, it was too late because the tumor had grown fast. One year later he was dead. Maybe an earlier diagnosis would have saved him or maybe it wouldn't have. But I'll always wonder.--Mrs. C.J.

A. Thanks for writing.

I agree with you that a child's complaints should never be diagnosed as "nerves" until a careful examination has been made to rule out the various organic causes for his symptoms. As I stated in the column you mentioned, "Other things can cause stomach-ache, too, including swallowed foreign particles, twisted intestines, stomach ulcers and the like. And if your youngster continues to complain, after attention has been paid to possible psychological dietary factors, he'll need a more comprehensive diagnostic study and investigation."

In your son's case, it sounds as though his doctors carefully examined him and even hospitalized him in an effort to find the cause of his abdominal pains a couple of years before the brain tumor became apparent. Unfortunately, the great majority of brain tumors in children develop silently and cannot be identified and properly treated until they have reached such a stage that cure is impossible.

Q — My 8-year-old grandchild seems to get a thrill out of killing bugs. He'll hit at a bug, then when the bug starts wiggling, he'll laugh and hit it again — especially when his sister is watching. Do you think it's because it scares her?

Also he gets more attention by such behavior — his sister goes to their mom who reprimands him.

He does the same thing every time he finds a bug of any sort. His mom worries about this seeming cruelty. She's afraid something else may come from it. His dad laughs and says, "He'll outgrow it."

What's your opinion? He's a real bright and normal boy and makes good grades in school.

A — If your grandson pets dogs and cats and shows no cruelty to other animals (or children), don't worry about the bug killing. Perhaps you're right, he may want to look like a brave "dragon slayer." He may also feel important, since his sister seems horrified or squeamish.

Q—I'm a supervisor at a reading center which uses the "talking typewriter," so I was most interested in your article on children with reading problems. Where can I obtain a copy of the August, 1970, Pediatric News which discusses the use of these typewriters and other "self-paced learning materials"?--R.S.

A — Pediatric News is published monthly by the World Medical Reports, Inc., 4907 Cordell Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20014. The article referred to appeared on page 11 of the August, 1970, issue.

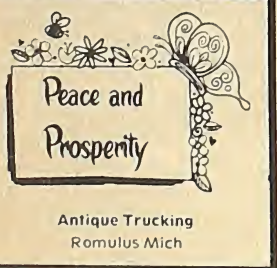

Q. My girlfriend's doctor prescribed some amphetamines for her to help her lose weight. I've been taking a half a capsule a day and they are wonderful. I, too, have lost a few pounds. I'd like to take them for two more weeks. Can they hurt me?

A — I don't approve of anyone taking amphetamine drugs without a doctor's supervision. Although they temporarily curb the appetite, they may cause side-effects, including nervousness, insomnia and the like.

The patient who takes such drugs may temporarily lose a few pounds, but he usually gains the weight back promptly when he stops taking the drugs - unless the drugs are prescribed as part of an overall, carefully designed weight-control program.

If you have a Child Care problem you would like discussed in this column, write in care of The Daily Eagle, 35540 Michigan Ave. West, Wayne, Mich. 48184

TRYING FOR A SAVE - Belleville's Dennis Moore (white jersey) tries to bank the ball off of Plymouth's Howie Schryer in last week's finals of the Wayne Christmas tournament. Moore and his teammates (above) got the ball out of bounds, but the Rocks took the victory and the title. At right, Terry Pate (white jersey) battles with Plymouth's Howie Schryer for a rebound that ended in a jump ball. Plymouth turned back the Tigers for the second time this season, snapping a Belleville fourgame winning streak.

Belleville loses tourney title bid

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Belleville's bid for the 1970 Wayne Christmas Basketball Tournament championship went awoul last week as Plymouth cashed in on Tiger miscues to win a 75-66 decision to wrap up the title.

"I was extremely disappointed," said Coach Allen Gates whose team now has lost twice to Plymouth - once in Suburban Six Conference. "But I guess they were a little more prepared for the game than we were."

The Belleville loss also slashed a four-game Tiger winning streak - the longest in recent years.

Belleville made it to the finals with victories over Cherry Hill and Livonia Churchill while Plymouth knocked off the host, Wayne Memorial, and Westland John Glenn.

Belleville made a game of it for eight minutes before personal fouls got to Tiger pivotman Tony Ogletree who was forced to the sidelines late in that quarter. Coach Gates' quintet hung on 21-17, but couldn't manage to make up the deficit as the fast-breaking Rock quintet led by Howie Schryer, Casey Jones and Charlie Wolfe, went on a rampage and outscored their rivals, 29-16, in the second frame.

At half Plymouth held a 50-33 edge and was never seriously threatened after the intermission.

The Rocks held a 21 point (63-42) advantage over the Tigers in the third quarter.

Plymouth's well-balanced attack saw four of its cagers hit in double figures. Wolfe and Jones each and 16 points while Schryer chipped in 14 and Gary Close finished with 11.

Belleville has the game's leading scorer in Garrade Pettus who was on target for 10 baskets and six free throws for 26 points. He was supported by Marty Miller, who wound up with 15.

At the free throw line Belleville capitalized upon 14 of its 21 chances to Plymouth's 19 of 30.

Belleville will resume Suburban Six Conference competition on Friday when the Tigers travel to Livonia Bentley. Coach Gates' team will take a 1-1 league record up against the Bulldogs who have the view at the top of the standings with a perfect 2-0 record.

Next Tuesday, the Tigers will get a look at one of two future league rivals in Dearborn. Dearborn as well as Edsel Ford (also of Dearborn) will enter the expanded Suburban six to made up the newly-organized Suburban 8 Conference.

Nunley looks good

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

There were plenty of rooters from this area for the San Francisco 49ers in yesterday's National Football Conference championship game. And one of the reasons was a middle linebacker by the name of Frank Nunley.

Nunley, area grid fans will recall, is a former Belleville High School football star who developed into an outstanding player at the University of Michigan where he earned Big-10 Conference recognition before moving into the pro ranks.

The 49ers' middle linebacker, Nunley gave an excellent account of himself against the Dallas Cowboys in the NFC title bout. Though injured early in the game after several tackles, Frank didn't waste much time on the sidelines and rushed right back into the game.

The end, as those of us who follow such things already know, was a frustrating one for Nunley and the 49ers who lost their bid for the NFC title, 17-10, and a crack at the Super Bowl.

It'll be the Cowboys vs. the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl on Jan. 17.

Nunley's parents, who still reside in Belleville, were able to see their son in the playoffs, making the trip to Minnesota where San Francisco upended the Vikings 17-14 to reach the finals.

They were planning to go to Florida for the finale-it just wasn't in the books for this year...maybe next year.

Wonder if you can top this athletic-scholastic achievement, coach? Did you know that John Glenn's wrestling team had placed 17 on the school's honor roll?

So, who "sez" sports is detrimental to one's studies?

I couldn't believe it, but Coach Bob Lusk says that it's true - he's got a real "brain-trust" on his hands this year in his wrestling team.

"All of our seniors, and there are nine of them, made the honor roll and that's also something," he added."

A couple of more interesting facts were handed me by a veteran cage fan who said I should know these things because "I've been around for a long time."

The fan noted that 50 years ago, that's right - fifty (April 21, 1920), Belleville beat Wayne Memorial in basketball, 52-6.

I can't believe that. And I can't prove anything because there aren't many of the guys on the two teams around. The reason for my disbelief is that in the good old days, teams didn't score 52 points!

This veteran also stated that Wayne revenged that defeat 40 years ago, beating Belleville 14-13.

Can you believe that?

Since we're in our time machine, do you recall Kevin Wilkinson, the former Garden City East athlete who made our All-Area baseball team as a catcher a couple of years ago?

He's back in town and will conduct a question-and-answer session about the "Sho-Me Baseball Camp" on Jan. 6 at 8 p.m. at East High School.

The camp is located at Branson, Missouri and is run by Bob Brasher, Coach at Kansas State University.

What's this all have to do with Kevin? Well, he's catching for Kansas State University these days, and is spreading the good word.

The baseball session is sponsored by the Garden City East Booster Club.

Last low-rent unit rented in HUD plan

The City of Romulus has completed its initial program of public housing units.

Keys to the last of 101 low-rent public housing units built under the program have been presented to the occupant by officials of the Romulus Public Housing Commission.

The last tenant to move in was Mrs. Cynthia McCurdy, who with her three children and a brother moved into the public housing unit located at 6231 Dexter last week.

Officials who welcomed her were Commission Chairman Eugene Wilson, Commissioners Donald Kouba, John Vanstipdonk and Ernie Davis, Secretary Dianne Reed and Public Housing Director William Duncan.

The low-rent housing units, authorized by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), were constructed by the Urban American Land Development Co. of Flint at a cost of $1,906,344.

The Flint firm built the 101 units on scattered sites under the "turnkey" concept, by which the firm sold the houses to the Romulus Public Housing Commission for rental purposes.

The financial assistance contract approved by HUD also provides for annual contributions by the federal government to help Romulus keep rents within the financial means of low-income families.

The low-rent housing units were made available to Senior Citizens, persons displaced by Urban Renewal and other Romulus residents unable to provide for themselves decent housing at present market rentals.

Romulus Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael says that additional public housing units will depend on further studies and need as well as recommendations of Romulus City Council.

The Romulus Public Housing Commission announced that the commission will hold a meeting of all tenants at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Beverly Elementary School, located on Beverly Rd. east of Wayne Rd.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the tenants to the rules and regulations and to answer questions.

The office of the commission is located at 5907 Chamberlain St. the telephone number is 729-5389.

The Public Housing Commission meets at 8 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month.

Joseph Schlund of 16520 Sumpter Rd. reported to State Police that the break-in and robbery was discovered last Tuesday morning when the gas station was opened for business.

The burglars entered the gas station sometimes after the station was closed Monday night.

Tools in the station were used to smash off the hinges of the office safe. The money was in the safe police reported.

It was the fifth time that the building had been entered, Schlund reported.

Kawanis travelogue to feature Florida

The Belleville Kiwanis Club will present the third of its "Travel and Adventure Series" in the new Belleville High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday.

Dr. Ray Ludwigson will present a special type of travelogue entitled "Florida Fantasy."

Dr. Ludwigson brings a background of scholarship to the travelogue profession. A past college professor and college president, he has published a number of books and articles in conjunction with his wife, Kay, also a past college professor.

Dr. Ludwigson, a native of New England, has pursued the hobby of photography since his boyhood. As well as developing and enlarging film for himself and friends, he was built several of his own cameras which will be used to present "Florida Fantasy."

Aided by his wife, who writes the script and selects music and sound effects, Dr. Ludwigson offers a delightful evening of travel and adventure.

"Florida Fantasy" follows the rainbow trail into a romantic "never-never land" here in the southern United States.

Tickets for the presentation are $1.50 per person. Season tickets are for the balance of the current series are now available at $4 per person, according to program chairman: Manley Baldwin. The Belleville High School Chorale will present a 30-minute performance prior to the opening of the travelogue.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

In a world of discord and disagreement, hostilities and hatreds, all of us can be thankful for the vast improved attitudes of friendliness seen throughout our land — if we will only look. Where divisions and differences were once hotly debated, we now see open and frank discussion in friendly manner.

The walls and their shadows of religious isolationism are being removed. Protestant and Catholic relations have changed, have vastly improved in recent years. They are not only more friendly in their talks with each other, they are LISTENING to each other. Catholic priests and Protestant ministers appear in public on all sorts of occasions — without provoking argument. It is not uncommon these days to see a priest and minister participate in "mixed" marriages. Masonic and Knights of Columbus groups are having lunch and dinner dates together.

Even though doctrines and rituals may differ, it is encouraging to see people realize that basically we are all one body, baptized in one body...

Tax collection fee has statewide pattern

A one per cent collection fee assessed Belleville residents on the collection of current property tax is patterned after statewide tax collecting methods, Mayor Royce E. Smith reported Monday.

"The city charter of Belleville provides for the one per cent collection fee," Mayor Smith said. "Our city charter, as well as most city charters, provides for a similar collection fee. Our charter refers to state laws that provide approval of such collection fees," he added.

The collection fee is collected on city, county and school taxes that are collected in the City of Belleville only, and are used to pay the salary of City Treasurer Mrs. Cora Bradshaw, the mayor said.

As of noon Dec. 30, the collection of the one per cent fee has brought in a total of $3,332 in salary remuneration for the city treasurer, the mayor reported.

Mayor Smith's explanation of the collection of the one per cent fee was made after a resident of the city complained.

The resident asked for an explanation and reason for the assessment of the fee on tax bills adding that he "resented having to pay for handling his taxes."

A member of City Council, who has property in northern Michigan, reported that he also pays the one per cent collection fee on his property for taxes there.

Mayor Smith stated that, when he was a member of the tax committee of the old Wayne County Board of Supervisors was now the Wayne County Board of Commissioners a resolution was passed by the tax committee that the county and school districts collect their own own taxes. It was never passed by the full board of supervisors, he said.

City taxes are assessed in July and payable by Aug. The county and school taxes are assessed in December.

The mayor pointed out that the City Council has nothing to do with the amount of county and school taxes that are assessed.

Section 10 of the city charter (compensation of treasurer) states: "The compensation of the treasurer shall be fixed by the council in addition to fees provided for treasurers of municipalities by state laws."

The mayor also cited Section 14 of the city charter which states: "For the purpose of assessing and levying taxes in the city for state, county, school and library purposes, the city shall be considered the same as a township, and all provisions of state law relative to the collection of such taxes, the accounting therefore to the appropriate taxing units, and the returning of property for non-payment thereof, shall apply to the performance thereof by the treasurer who shall perform the same duties and have the same powers as township treasurers."

All Around The Town

...with Lee

THE TRUE MEANING...

I CAN'T THINK OF A BETTER WAY TO START THIS COLUMN THAN BY EXTOLLING THE THOUGHTFULNESS OF A GROUP OF AREA TEENAGERS (I like to think of them as young adults) during the holiday season -- that shadowy majority of our youth who are never heard of simply because they're not out there making headlines by mauling our society.

I'm sure they're not even aware that we've heard of their good deed and we won't embarrass them by mentioning their names. But when the Van Buren Convalescent Home called, we were delighted to be able to pass on their news.

It seems a certain sextet (B.H.S. students and alumnus) put their heads together one afternoon, dug out all the ingredients and whipped up dozens and dozens of Christmas cookies. After taking time to decorate them appropriately, they delivered the goodies to the Home and personally passed them about to the residents who were, in most cases, tearfully appreciative.

SLEEPING GEAR IN TWO

NANCY MUSE took a turn at playing hostess between the holidays and invited a group of her South Junior High friends in for a party which terminated in an all-night slumber session.

Promising her friends a 'surprise', she came up with a live combo for dancing as four fellow-eighth graders arrived to entertain. Steve Prouty on drums and Guitarists Pete Bankert, John Smith and Dwight Baker who've been playing together for the past year) made up the quartet.

After a pizza supper and the group's departure the girls played games, exchanged gifts, danced even more, and downed a lunch in the early A.M. hours.

In on the fun and enjoying brunch before saying their farewells in the morning were Joy Russell, Judy Freidrick, Ann Paas, Michelle Jenkins, Sue Smith, Kim Haveranek, Sandy Scothorn, Karen Greathouse, Jennie Henning, and Kim Morris.

SILVER BELLS

TOMORROW, JANUARY 7, will mark a memorable date for Omar (Robert) and Leona Lipe of 11105 Borgman, Belleville, -- their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple is being taken out to dinner -- the destination a surprise as are the guests invited to celebrate the happy occasion. Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Ponds of Belleville are making all the party preparations.

The Lipes, wed in Traverse City in 1946, have been residents of Belleville for the past four years, moving here from Muskegon when the Marathon Refinery closed and Robert was transferred to Detroit.

The couple's four children include a daughter, Mrs. Sharon Riggs of Muskegon and three sons, Robert, also of Muskegon and Rodney and David at home. There's also a four-year old grandson, Michael Riggs, to be counted.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

HOUSE PARTIES were definitely 'in' this past holiday season as Belleville couples opened their homes to special friends, neighbors and relatives.

The Edgedale Drive residence of Irv and Louise Czajkowski was among those abuzz with New Year's Eve festivities.

Their guest list included the Doug Liedels, the Stanley Joneses, the Troy Fants, the Glenn Lehmanns, the Bernard Boyds, and the Doctors Capili, all from the Edgedale circuit.

Then there were the Marcelle Muscis from Dearborn as well as Bellevillites Harold and Sandy Ackron, John and Sally Chudzinski, Ted and Barbara Center, the Jim Ackrons, the Joe Chudzinskis, the Art Martins, and Chuck Baisch.

Earlier in the evening most of the neighborhood had dropped in for the open house tossed by Bernard and Mary Boyd (down the street) and on Saturday gathered at the A.M. Capili's new home for their holiday gala.

A TOAST TO '71

SEEING IN the new year together at the Norman McNally home on Edgemont Street were a group of friends all involved in Boy Scouting in the Belleville area.

Bringing along food and drink for the co-op buffet were the Harold Inneses, the Ed Lauths, the Bob Lentzs, and the Fenton Creiths. Also the Warren Branscombs, the Keith Bowleses, the Ray Memerings, the Dick Trevorrowes, the Marvin Howletts, and the Bob Schanks.

The group also toasted the birthday of Ray Memering by presenting him with a stack of gag gifts.

FOR AULD LANG SYNE

THIRTEEN COUPLES answered invitations to the New Year's Eve soiree hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Sierota of Quirk Road. Driving in from Mt. Clemens were the Dick Lesnaus with the Len Bensons arriving from Grosse Pointe and the John Santieus from Garden City.

Others from out of town included Kathy Hage of Wayne; the John Hands of Dearborn; the Len Glinskis from Northville; and Kenn Sierota of Detroit.

Local twosomes enjoying games, dancing and a mid-morning buffet supper were the Art Hills and the Dennis Moriartys with the A.R. Liebelers, the Ed Huges, the Bert Smiths, and the Bill Huges coming in from an earlier cocktail party at the John Robertses Lake Pointe Pass home.

AT THE KAUSE'S

OUT ON Harmony Lane New Year's Eve, friends and relatives of Jim and Eunice Kause gathered to see the old year out and the new year in.

Joining them for the evening were Joe and Bonnie Moon, Don and Doris Blumh, Mike and Sue Misna, Ed and Vivian Koss, Dennis and Diane Moriarty (who dropped in enroute to another party), Jerry and Carol Dolph, Neal and Trish Terwilliger, and Chuck and Gert Minthorn.

SON BAPTIZED

KYLE THOMAS Guilstorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guilstorf of Utica, was presented for holy baptism recently with the Rev. Joseph Charles Dibley of the First United Methodist Church presiding.

God-parents were Mrs. Judith Hollander of Chicago and William Szabo of Belleville, the baby's aunt and uncle.

HOME FROM U-I

TIM THOMAS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas of New Boston, was home from the University of Idaho at Moscow, Idaho for the holidays. While here he played Santa Claus to his sisters, Kathy and Suzy, and brother, Glenn, and also to the newest member of the family, their niece, Timmi.

Honeymoon in Bahamas

Mike Skidmore, Eva Nehez married at St. Anthony's

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting December 18 for the evening ceremony which united Eva V. Nehez and Michael L. Skidmore in holy matrimony. Father Raymond S. Skonec presided at the double ring rite before an altar appointed with sprays of white gladiolas tied with red ribbons.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas J. Nehez of 16650 Savage Road, Belleville, Eva entered the church on the arm of her father. For her wedding day she appeared in a full-length gown of candlelight velvet enhanced with Venetian lace on the empire waistline, high neck, and long sleeves.

Her veil, borrowed from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Carol Nehez, was a mantilla of tulle banded in Venetian lace. The bride's colonial bouquet was an arrangement of white roses encircled by white carnations and tendrils of ivy.

As her sister's maid of honor, Barbara Nehez donned a ruby velvet frock and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and ivy centered with three ruby-tinted carnations.

Her empire-style gown was fashioned with long sleeves and a high neckline accented with floral trim.

Ann Todd of Bloomfield Hills was dressed in violet velvet and Cheryl Walters of Chicago, formerly of Belleville, was in royal blue velvet. Both held bouquets which matched their frocks.

Jim Skidmore served as best man for his brother while Floyd Gillespie and Bill Cordell, both of Belleville, ushered.

The Nehez home on Savage Road was the scene of the reception which followed. The 100 guests were greeted by the bride's mother in an aqua dress with a corsage of carnations to match. Pink carnations were pinned to the silver-trimmed white dress which Mrs. Skidmore chose for her son's wedding.

The newlyweds will depart January 24 for an eight-day honeymoon in Nassau in the Bahamas after which they will make their home at F-6 Pine Grove Apartments, Ypsilanti.

A senior at Eastern Michigan University, the new Mrs. Skidmore is majoring in English while her husband, also an E.M.U. senior, is majoring in Physics. He is currently president of the Physics Club.

More meat per hour

One hour's work in a factory buys more food today than it did 20 and 30 years ago. Today's pay for an hour of factory work will buy 2.6 pounds of round steak in contrast to 1.5 pounds 20 years ago and 1.8 pounds 30 years ago. Today's work hour also buys 3.7 pounds of bacon compared with 1.7 pounds of both 20 and 30 years ago.

Chamberlin-Fuller wed

Florida honeymoon follows December rite

A honeymoon in Florida followed the December 19 marriage of Judy Arlene Chamberlin of Detroit and Daniel R. Fuller of New-Boston.

The Highland Church of Christ, Detroit, was reserved for the double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. Douglas Kostowski.

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jay F. Chamberlin of 5490 Blue Bush Road, Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Fuller of 20885 Vining Road, New Boston.

Nancy Fuller at the organ, accompanied Mary Ann McCellan who was soloist.

For her wedding day, the bride donned a white, floor-length velvet gown designed with a high neckline on the empire bodice. The long, bell-shaped sleeves were bordered with Venice lace as were the neckline and waist. The lace motif was repeated on the detachable train which fell from the waistline.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion drifted from a profile headpiece of Venice lace studded with tiny seed pearls. Her cascade bouquet was comprised of red sweetheart roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Bridal attendants donned floor-length creations of red and green velvet styled with bishop sleeves and slightly gathered A-line skirts. White Venice lace frosted the high necklines and bodices.

Priscilla Redmond served as maid of honor with Mrs. John Chamberlin as matron of honor, and Brenda Wells, Nancy Wise and Marie Messana as bridesmaids.

Their cluster headdresses, in lace to match their gowns, were edged with short, three-tiered veils. Crescents of pom pons and miniature carnations completed their ensembles.

Gene Fuller was asked to be best man. Others on the esquire side were John Chamberlin, James Lawson, Robert Belcher, and Rick Valade.

Jackie Chamberlin carried out the role of the flowergirl with Allen Hoskins performing as ringbearer.

A reception in the church social hall followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Fuller is a junior at Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing, Detroit. Her husband received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan and will enter the U. S. Navy as an ensign this month.

Cortis-Bogotski vows exchanged

Karen Ann Bogotski and Gregory Allan Cortis exchanged double ring vows December 19 in an afternoon ceremony at St. Aloysius Catholic Church, Romulus.

Father Joseph Kernosek presided at the five o'clock nuptials attended by the immediate family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bogotski of 37545 Van Petten, Romulus, are parents of the bride while Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cortis of Allen Park are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding day, Karen donned a white velvet dress fashioned in street length with long sleeves and a high neckline. Her veil of illusion was cut in fingertip length and she carried a bouquet of red and white carnations as she approached the sanctuary with her father.

The bridegroom's sister, Denise Cortis of Allen Park, was maid of honor in a short, pastel pink frock. Her bouquet contained pink carnations.

Best man was Ronald Giehar of Allen Park.

Following a reception at the Ole Wayne House, Wayne, the newlyweds departed for a two week honeymoon in Florida. They are now making their home at 37537 Van Petten, Romulus.

The new Mrs. Cortis graduated from Romulus High School and is presently in her senior year at Eastern Michigan University where she is also employed at the Placement Center. She will

Livestock census

While the "people" census is taken only once every ten years, livestock numbers are calculated annually. Perhaps it's because there aren't as many demographic groups to tabulate, at any rate, the nation's cattle, hog and sheep industries have managed—through business like efficiency and know-how—to keep the meat animal population high enough to feed the human population adequate amounts of beef, veal, pork and lamb. Here's what the livestock population amounts to in 1970: 11.3 million cattle and calves 56.7 million hogs and pigs and .04 million sheep and lambs.

Those five states wherein you find the most beauty contests are Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. Question is why. A student of the matter. He contends it's the men of those states who are most apt to be addicted to pretty girls. Put a good-looking young lady in front of a northern fellow and he'll just accept her as is with some mild admiration. But put her in front of a southern man and he'll not only inspect the one, but he'll want to examine five more. Or so this expert claims. Watch this space for further insight into the romantic natures of northern and southern men and how they differ. The science boys say the average grownup carries around about eight pounds of skin. Believe they found this out with computers. Hope so, at any rate...If that girl criticizes your facial foliage, young fellow, remind her of the old Spanish proverb that says, "A kiss without a mustache is like an egg without any salt."...In that matter of unusual birthplaces, now have a reader in Pacific Palisades, Calif., who says he was born afield in a high stand of corn. Maybe that's the limit, what?

In San Antonio, a married couple, both previously divorced, last month named their youngest son in honor of the mother's first husband. Earlier, they had named their only daughter in honor of the father's first wife. Is that savior faire? ...Note it claimed as a basic business principle that any man who sleeps more than eight hours a night is doomed to fail in his career. Old Calvin Coolidge didn't understand this principle, evidently. He regularly slept 12 hours a night.

HOROSCOPE

General tendencies: An excellent day and evening to set up a satisfactory bookkeeping system or to make financial arrangements that will continue for a considerable time to come, paving the way for greater prosperity. Don't let a partner upset your equilibrium.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Concentrating on the practical side of your life produces fine results just at this time. Seek the advice of expert in finances so you become more proficient, successful. Avoid big expenses in the future.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Doing whatever will make you a more dynamic and healthy person is wise now. State your aim to right persons at social affairs. Being specific without going into too much detail is wise.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You have to study detail more thoroughly before your project can be established on a more solid basis. Sit down quietly and ponder ways of making everything more satisfying, as should be. Avoid going off on tangents of any sort.

Moon Children (June 22 to Aug. 21) Good day for those civic and career affairs in the outside world. Add to present goodwill of persons in high position. Learn more about governmental affairs and you improve personal position as well.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) More study is needed to understand those activities you wish to get into with great vim and vigor, then they will bring you more success. Catch up with that correspondence you have tucked away in a drawer.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You must handle your obligations in a precise fashion if you are to have the approval of higher-ups today. Once your work is completed, the evening can be romantic. Show generosity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Sit down with associates and cement better relations for the future, but take that chip off your shoulder first. Stick to policy matters. Do some planning with persons in vital civic life, also.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can become far more efficient if you get down seriously to the work ahead of you and labor at a steady pace. Utilize spare time to rebuild your energies. Take the right treatments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't waste any time daydreaming and this can be a most effective and happy day and p.m. for you. Some gift to the one you love can do wonders. Make sure to control your temper so you do not get into arguments.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Doing whatever you can to improve the situation at home is wise. Show that you are an affectionate family member and break the ice that way. Avoid those persons who are troublemakers.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle all those visits and other obligations in your own community now-don't put it off any longer. Write those letters, go over reports. Take it easy tonight, listen to radio, relax.

If your child is born today...he or she will be one of those fascinating young people whose feet are firmly on the ground who will handle any practical affairs of life with great ability, but who should be taught to know the motive behind any situation before getting into it. Otherwise trouble could develop, especially where matters concerning others are involved. Also, teach to study the overall picture instead of just getting right into the details. Give training in sports and music early.

You know what Mark Twain said, "Golf is a good walk spoiled."...Q. "What's the difference between a podiatrist and a chiropodist?" A. No difference. Both words sprang up because the foot doctors got tired of being called corn cutters.

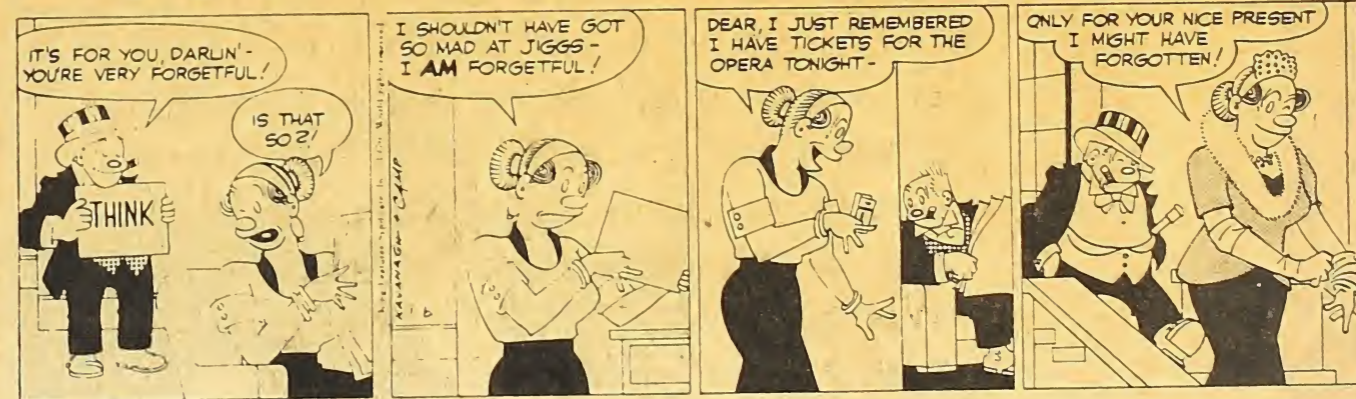

Our love and war man says he likes the sort of woman who...Sticks to one kind of perfume... Grows chrysanthemums...Shampoos her hair at least twice a week...Despises twin beds...Quotes limericks...Uses a blade razor on her legs...Hums hymns...Chooses soap rather than deodorants...Remembers the menus instead of the mileage...Enjoys the lipstick but forgoes the rouge...Gets mad at the front page...Prefers jade over rhinestones...Refuses to wear false eyelashes...Thinks girdles are humorous...And fast fries steak in a cured iron skillet.

a century of dependability

The world we live in moves at a rapid pace. New products appear, and disappear, by the hundreds on a daily basis. New factions, philosophies, ideas, are gobbled up, and spit out, before digestion can occur. Fads and fancies sweep the nation and some are exhausted in weeks. We have new politics, new economics, new ways of doing things.

And, in this frighteningly furious time, you and I search for roots. We look for credibility . . . for stability . . . for orderly progress . . . for communication . . . for answers to our problems . . . and for agreement. We want things built to last. We want quality. We want service. We want to deal with institutions that have stood the test of time. Wyandotte Savings Bank celebrates its hundredth anniversary this year. A century of dependability. Why?

Because, while fads and fancies shifted . . . while opinions changed . . . while events began accelerating . . . Wyandotte Savings Bank adhered to the principle of dependability. People knew we always were there when needed . . . and, more importantly, we met our commitments. In return, they favored us with their business, and brought their friends and associates with them. And, over the years, we have grown to know and to respect each other. We communicated. We worked out our problems together on an equitable basis.

Now, the community is larger . . . the population is larger and Wyandotte Savings Bank is larger. All because we could depend on each other.

So, in beginning our hundredth year, let me sincerely thank all of you for allowing us to be your banker . . . and invite you to join in the activities we have planned throughout the year to demonstrate our appreciation of your patronage.

Sincerely,

William T. Orr
President
